

Statement of Purpose

The field of economics can have so many diversions and different perspectives. And its power to transform both an individual's and society's state of living through enabling people to be more in touch with a higher economic reality is fascinating and something to aim at first by reaching their myself. Where our mechanisms can help us to interpret the world's financial problems from a true economic perspective. Exploring and experiencing with figures played out on different scenarios all in search of better economic standpoints. The world is in need of real solutions in this sector and as such pursuing a career in economics gives me an opportunity to research and join my peers in helping to develop new and viable financial solutions. I am positive that through pursuing a master's degree in economics, I will be well equipped to realize this passion for the good of inadequate communities.

I am a focused, young male who has a keen interest in providing solutions especially towards the improvement of our current economic situation. Through studying economics, I will have the ability to address various concerns which will ultimately lead to the making of better economic decisions. I believe that it is only when we get to understand our current economic situation and the factors that drive it that we can be able to find the right solutions. I have worked with FAS Finance and Investment Limited for close to two years now and all through the while, I can confidently attest to the fact that failure is always an exception in my tail of work. Not to say that the company has been the only beneficiary of my services and skills, the forever important experience and know-how I have acquired through the years shall forever remain invaluable to me.

It is through this experience that I have decided to pursue my graduate studies in economics. Through this, I will be equipped with the skills and analytical tools required to better understand economic and social dynamics. Pursuing a master's degree in economics shall enchant me the opportunity to research and develop workable and practical solutions for our ever-changing economy.

In the age of big data, where we can measure outcomes better than ever before, it will be substantial and imperative to have the tools by which to measure this data. This ability will be important in business but it might be even more important in a nonprofit or governmental capacity. All of the expenses we incur in everything we do need to be carefully examined and monitored to ensure financial readiness at all times. It is for these reasons that I believe that a Masters in Economics would appropriately complement my current skill set.

This decision to pursue my graduate studies has been guided by the strong belief that real-world contributions are what I am for having already demonstrated proper organizational and leadership skills in both my academic and professional life. I also bring with me fresh ideas on the new methods of doing things and I am sure the rich variety of other colleagues from all corners of this world will be resourceful in my studies. I can only hope for the best with a master's degree in economics and my hope of bringing positive change to my country and the world at large will ultimately be realized.

I believe that the summation of my academic, personal, and professional experiences have amply prepared me for the master's program at XYZ University. I want to study at this University because of its mission statement that is grounded in a system of integrative coursework and a rigorous learning environment that allows the acquisition of both academic knowledge as well as the essential practical skills. XYZ University values life and in striving for the master's degree, the learning experience will be fun. This interconnection is all I am looking for. The faculty at XYZ inspires me to want to soar to greater heights both academically as well as professionally.

Statement of Purpose

Math has always been my subject. While my friends would complain that it was “too hard” and that they could never remember how to solve the word problems, I loved them. I loved the challenge that these problems gave me, and was always interested in learning more. Even in third grade, I was reading math textbooks from grades 4 through 6. I taught myself to understand higher level concepts when I needed to.

Combined with my interest in math, my father is a financial analyst. When I was young, I did not really understand what his job entailed. As I grew older, I grew more fascinated by my father's job. It was not traditionally exciting, but he got to work with numbers and find patterns in them. As soon as I got my first computer, I started to do research in preparation for a future career in finance. I loved learning new information, and picked financial administration as my undergraduate degree because I loved the complexity and importance of the subject.

I want to now take that academic expertise and technical skill and apply it to the finance world. I think that I have the ability to build great career in the finance sector because I know how to make full use of finance, economy information and how to use it properly. Moreover, this program will help me to know about the proper implementation of Finance and Economic Theory in real life. I will know how to solve a financial problem and find out the real facts of the solution.

After my undergraduate career, I worked at The Bashundhara Group in Bangladesh. My responsibilities included reviewing cash flow of the company, preparing sales, purchase, and inventory statements for the company, implementing assets registration, and reviewing all kinds of financial documents for the company. All these experiences helped draw me to the challenge and detail of the field.

I could learn more about the finance. I can also use the knowledge that I have to solve real world problems, and make a difference in the world around me. This is something that I have always looked forward to, since I was a young student learning about finance and money for the first time. By pursuing a finance Master's degree, I can have more flexibility and greater autonomy in my future career.

My interest in problem solving and my desire to use it in my career have led me to explore the field more and want to study it further. I enjoy it as a combination of theory and practicality, a field that underlies all others and serves as the basis for much of the innovation that we see today. Upon completion of the XYZ UNIVERSITY at finance program, I hope to be successful in the financial management sector and subsequently pursue my career in the field. I will be dedicated to my company and work to make it succeed.

MOTIVATION LETTER

Dear Sir,

I am writing in order to express my interest in applying for a Master's Degree Programme at XYZ University. I honestly think that with my educational background, I have more than enough knowledge to start learning and practicing at the Faculty of Economics in the Czech Republic. My professional activity was mainly Research Associate at Centre for Policy Dialogue (CPD) and that would enable me to have a great start at Your University in Czech Republic.

Since my academic performance was always on top of the class, it wasn't that hard for me to get the Bachelor in Economics and Master in History and culture degree. My motivation is to contribute greatly to the society in the future and find a solution too many problems that occur as the time changes. With my strong will and hard-working ethics, I am more than suitable candidate for the XYZ University. Therefore, I am more than willing to participate in the whole process of making the world a better place. Also, I would like to continue my studies so I can gain more knowledge and experience in the field of Economics.

The main reason why am I applying here is because I find that at the XYZ University I will be able to expand my knowledge in many fields and use it in the future. However, my thirst for knowledge was always the main motivation for my achievements and accomplishments. Even in the high-school, I was already showing pretty big interest in the field if Economics and that is where I chose my path and decided to get the Master Degree in Economics one day. I surely hope that the day will come true. Never the less, I have never backed down in front of a challenge and that is something that makes me more than a suitable student at the XYZ University. With my will and desire to learn, you will be rest assured that you can make a great student out me and that I will become a hard-working man in the future who is willing to salve every problem that comes in its path.

The fact that I will have the opportunity to learn from the best professors in the field of Economics is definitely something I had wanted my whole life. I am also more than aware that with the great education comes great responsibility, and therefore, I am willing to study hard and work even harder in order to become a hard-working man in the future. Also, I am aware that with the right dedication and perseverance I would be able to achieve much more with Your University.

Finally, I can say that if you welcome me in the Czech Republic and your University to get this Master Degree in Economics, I would prove to be a positive reply with all my skills and knowledge that I learned with you.

I am looking forward to a favorable response from you.

Regards

MOTIVATION LETTER

Dear Madam or Sir,

My name is Farhana Huq and with this letter I am applying for Master in Public Economic Policy offered at XYZ University. With my current experience as a Lecturer and Coordinator of Department of Economics at Northern University in Bangladesh, I would like to expend my knowledge and contribute to the society in the field of Economic and Human Resource Management.

Since I find my Bachelor in Economics and MBA in Human Resource Management only the starting point in my carrier, I would like to study in Faculty of Economics and Administration in order to learn as much as you can offer me.

I believe that I am suitable candidate for the programme that you are offering because I have always wanted to come to the Czech Republic and learn more about Economics in general. I also believe that your master programme is definitely capable of providing excellent teaching facilities and other staff that are important for a good education. Therefore, I am attracted by the seriousness of your courses since that way I can learn from the best professors. Also, I love the fact that the XYZ University is not only focusing on the theory, but it also emphasizes the necessity of research as well.

Regarding my academic performance, I can honestly say that I am one of the most persistent hard-working students. Even from the beginning, in the high-school, I have always wanted to learn more and to contribute somehow to the society later with my knowledge. The core of my motivation can be described as the thirst for knowledge and its use, and therefore, I tend to be the very best and the most hard-working student at your University.

As for my personal focus, I can say that I have always focused more on the history of the development and general problems that occur in microeconomics and institutions in general. The fact that I can combine my knowledge in theory in Economics with my interest and motivation was always keeping me going no matter what. Possibly the most important thing about me is that I can easily overcome many problems in the field of Economics. Therefore, I honestly think that with the interaction with other students and academics regarding the topic, I will be able to become well trained and definitely prepared for my carrier and the future.

Furthermore, to study at Faculty of Economics in Czech Republic at the XYZ University will bring me nothing more than happiness and much needed fuel in my carrier to become the very best at my job in the future. Having this opportunity to learn everything in a suitable environment with others as interested as I am, this would lead only to meaningful exchanges of ideas and thoughts which is definitely going to help us learn more with all the benefits involved. I believe that student life in Czech Republic would give me such a great chance to learn as well as the many new experiences to my future life.

Thank you for your time and consideration.
